Railroad Problem in Prescott, Too

The Nevada County Picayune mourns editorially over the collapse of negotiations for construction of an overpass at the Missouri Pacific tracks in Prescott.

"The citizens of Prescott," the paper said Aug. 3, "desperately need a way over or under the railroad tracks in time of emergency."

We in Hope know what the Picayune is talking about. Hope, too, has a problem in the fact that the main tracks of the "Mop" bisect our town, resulting in many frequently-blocked and always-dangerous grade crossings. Like Prescott we have the constant threat of a blocked crossing in a fire or police emergency—only our situation is worse because a good deal of mainline railroad switching is done in our downtown section.

Years ago we finally got an underpass of sorts—the makeshift structure at Hervey and Division Sts. We got it by virtually blackmailing the railroad. It was in World War II and Missouri Pacific needed to double-track its line through town, changing the grade at some street-crossings.

The city went along with the railroad—but at a price: Construction of an underpass on Hervey St. The railroad lived up to its word in general but not on a particular point. It constructed the underpass, but of wood, with a central support pylon, creating two roadways with this dangerous barrier between them as you see the structure today.

The war being on, there was a shortage of steel, but the railroad stipulated it would replace wood with steel and remove the roadway obstruction after the war. That's been 30 years ago, and we still have the old wooden structure at the Hervey St. underpass.

Nevertheless, if I were a Prescott citizen I'd keep after the railroad about that underpass.

Three refuse VP slot, McGovern to name choice soon

By GREGG HERRINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three senators have refused anew to accept second spot on the Democratic ticket, but presidential nominee George McGovern says he is having no trouble finding a running-mate. "There's no difficulty finding applicants," McGovern said Thursday. "We've easily got more candidates for the job than we have members of the U.S. Senate."

McGovern appeared at the Senate Office Building around 11:30 a.m. EDT and said he and Muskie will make a joint announcement sometime later.

Muskie spent the morning at his home in suburban Bethesda with aides.

McGovern confirmed, in response to questions, that this week he sounded out Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts about accepting the vice-presidential nomination. But all three said no.

McGovern said he did not push them on it because he had discussed it with them during the Democratic National Convention, where they first refused.

Speculation over McGovern's next choice is centering around Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine. Muskie, who a year ago was considered the favorite for the presidential nomination, has had no comment on the No. 2 spot, which he held on the ticket in 1968.

McGovern met with a dozen newsmen in his Senate office as he attempted to lay to rest increasing speculation that he is having serious trouble getting a suitable running-mate.

As he denied those reports, McGovern said he is purposely taking his time in recommending a successor to Eagleton, who was persuaded by McGovern to withdraw from the ticket following disclosure that he had been hospitalized for depression stemming from nervous exhaustion and fatigue in 1960, 1964 and 1966.

"I can assure you the decision is being made the way it should be, with care and deliberation," McGovern said.

McGovern criticized the present system of selecting vice-presidential candidates, calling it "a major gamble."

He said presidential candidates are exhausted and rushed by the time they win their own nomination but "must get a vice-presidential nominee within a matter of hours."

The Democratic standard-bearer said he will ask party Chairman Jean Westwood to recommend that the party's charter committee investigate new ways to pick the vice-presidential nominee.

In response to a question, McGovern also said he never fully believed that Kennedy would not accept the vice-presidential nomination in Miami Beach, despite public disavowals of interest. "I thought ... once I got the nomination when it got right down to the crunch" that Kennedy would accept it, McGovern said.

Wholesale prices go up sharply, highest hike in five months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices posted in July the sharpest rise in five months to continue increasing at a faster pace than before President Nixon's Phase 2 wage-price controls, the government said today.

Last month's increase in prices of food and a broad range of industrial raw materials and manufactured goods was eight-tenths of one per cent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The report said wholesale prices in the eight months of Nixon's Phase 2 controls rose at an annual rate of 5.7 per cent compared with 5.2 per cent in the eight months before the Phase 1 wage-price freeze imposed a year ago.

The bureau also reported that the nation's unemployment rate remained unchanged in July at 5.5 per cent of the work force and total employment was virtually unchanged at 83.4 million.

"The jobless rate in June and July was substantially below the rates of around 6 per cent which had prevailed since the close of 1970," the report said.

It added that average hourly earnings of some 50 million rank-and-file workers rose one cent per hour to $3.62 and were up $1.09 per week to $136.47.

Average earnings were up $8.53 weekly or 6.7 per cent over the past year, and after deduction for the 2.9 per cent rise in living costs, the average paycheck was $4.58 per week above a year earlier, the report said.

Worth its weight in gold

Lester Kent of Hope, champion watermelon grower, poses with a 100 pound-plus melon worth its weight in gold ... practically. In March at the convention of the National Watermelon Growers Association in Hot Springs, Kent auctioned off a future watermelon that would weigh more than 100 pounds for $1,550. The melon was shipped from Texarkana yesterday to the purchasers, Lane Moffeth, Joe Trinino and Bill Leston, watermelon growers of Dilley, Tex.

Sewer district wins suit

Chancery Judge Royce Weisenberger ruled yesterday in favor of the Hope Municipal Sewer Improvement District in the suit filed recently by seven district residents. Judge Weisenberger, however, did make three minor adjustments in favor of three plaintiffs, reducing assessments a total of $24.20.

The district includes a section of State Highway 29 north of the city limit past the I-30 intersection.

Weisenberger, in his decree, said: the "...district was and is properly formed; that all ordinances connected with the formation thereof were proper and valid; that the plans and specifications prepared by the engineers under the supervision of the Board of Commissioners of said District are proper; that the assessors of said District were properly and legally named, and that they acted properly and legally in making the assessments against the various parcels of realty in said District; that said Board of Assessors acted in a legal, fair, impartial and equitable manner..."

Except for certain modifications contained in the decree, Weisenberger said the "complaint is dismissed for want of equity."

The modifications included three reductions in assessments for four plaintiffs: The assessments of the Pool tracts (Earl H. Pool, Mrs. W.A. Pool) was reduced from $326.70 to $182.50; the assessment of property owned by Luther Galloway was reduced $20 to $109.70; and Mrs. William Stevenson's assessment was reduced to $460 annually from $520.

Weisenberger found the assessments of the other plaintiffs — Tilton V. Wood and J.T. May to be equitable. Ray Honeycutt, one of the original plaintiffs, withdrew from the suit.

James Pilkinton of Hope, attorney for the district, said today that a work order will be issued as soon as the construction bonds can be printed and delivered.

Boyd Tackett of Texarkana was attorney for the plaintiffs.

Correction in court docket

The Star reported in the Court Docket yesterday that Tony Lynn Stroud was charged with driving while intoxicated, pled guilty and was fined $111.50 and one day in jail. Actually Stroud, a minor, was charged with driving without an adult sponsor. He was fined $16.50.

Few are holdouts for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen independent souls who like President Nixon but think even more of good old American rugged individualism are the only holdouts going uncommitted to a convention expected to renominate Nixon for a second White House term.

The only other non-Nixon delegate in a convention of 1,348 is the lone New Mexico delegate won in that state's primary by Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California.

The 12 who insist on going to Miami Beach uncommitted are not anti-Nixon, or even strongly pro-anyone else, they say. With the exception of a black delegate from Arkansas who has serious thoughts on black issues, they are just citizens who don't want to be pushed.

The largest bloc of uncommitted delegates to the Aug. 21 convention comes from South Carolina where seven of the state's 22 delegates say they'll probably vote for Nixon.

Two of the holdouts are Arkansas housewives who say readily they plan to vote for Nixon in the fall; but as for the convention—"uncommitted."

The other Arkansas holdout is Odis H. Richmond Sr., a 27-year-old black Republican candidate for the state legislature.

North Vietnamese driven from major strongpoints

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese infantrymen drove the North Vietnamese from their last two major strongpoints along Highway 13 north of Saigon today, military sources reported. They predicted the road between the capital and An Loc, which has been out for 119 days, would soon be open all the way.

The Saigon troops killed 28 North Vietnamese in fighting that cleared bunkers American forces had left at a fire base they abandoned two miles south of Tau O. The bunkers were so sturdy that U.S. air strikes failed to smash them, the sources said, and the South Vietnamese had to flush out the North Vietnamese with infantry and tank assaults.

No South Vietnamese casualties were reported. The South Vietnamese overran a second North Vietnamese strong point on the highway just south of the destroyed Tau O bridge and nine miles south of An Loc.

The sources said only small pockets of resistance remain along the 60-mile road from Saigon north to An Loc, and these are not expected to hamper movement seriously. But they said the road must be cleared of mines, and the bridges must be repaired.

Heavy North Vietnamese assaults on An Loc eased off a month ago. The government appears to be in firm control of the provincial capital after three months of bloody fighting.

South of Saigon in the Mekong delta, government troops claimed 102 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in infantry, artillery and air attacks in the Plain of Reeds.

The area has been the site of daily fighting for several weeks.

The U.S. Command reported more than 230 fighter-bomber strikes against North Vietnam Thursday and said they were concentrated in the southern part of the country. It was the third day overcast skies kept the American planes away from the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

Two dead following shooting

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A clerk and a visitor were shot to death Thursday night when an unidentified man walked into the Texas Liquor Store Beer Depot here and unleashed a volley of shots from a small-caliber pistol, police said.

The victims were identified as Horace E. Hurt, 32, of Hooks, Tex., the clerk, and Richard W. Purifoy, 41, of Texarkana, Tex.

A justice of the peace said that Hurt had been shot once in the chest and once in the stomach. Purifoy, who died about an hour after being shot, was struck in the head and in the chest. The wounds were said to have been inflicted by a small-caliber weapon.

Police said Purifoy apparently was just visiting Hurt when the shooting occurred.

POWS will have hard time adjusting in U.S.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — When American prisoners of war return home from Indochina they will have a difficult time adapting to the social changes that have taken place, according to a military psychiatrist.

For that reason, Capt. Raymond C. Spaulding Jr., chief of psychiatry at San Diego Naval Hospital, hopes welcoming ceremonies will be delayed for a while after their arrival home.

Spaulding says the POWs, some who have been in captivity for eight years, face a potentially traumatic cultural shock.

"Those guys are going to be very confused," Spaulding said. "Can you imagine being seven years over there and coming home to find your wife in a mindless and no bra out in public? Or your kids with long, scroungy hair?" Spaulding made his comments in an interview with the San Diego Tribune.

Spaulding, 51, was head of the six-man psychiatric team which worked with the men from the captured spy ship Pueblo. They spent a year as prisoners in North Korea.

"I was very much against the precipitous return of the Pueblo people," he said. "It was a psychological crime. Crewmen later told me they didn't know if they'd be stoned in the streets or taken to a federal prison."

Spaulding envisions a more gradual rehabilitation program, with the men possibly being returned by ship rather than air.

The Pentagon is working on a contingency plan for the return and care of POWs. Although the North Vietnamese government has given no indication when POWs will be released, the Naval Hospital here is expected to be a center for rehabilitation on their return.

Final arguments in Bremer case slated

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Final arguments remain to be heard today before the trial of Arthur H. Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, goes to the jury.

After the dismissal of four counts Thursday by Judge Ralph W. Powers, Bremer remained under indictment on 13 counts arising from the May 15 shooting of Wallace and three other persons at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

Powers cited lack of evidence as his grounds for dismissing a charge of assault with intent to maim on each of the four persons wounded.

Bremer has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to all charges arising from the shootings, including four each of assault with intent to murder, assault and battery and using a handgun in violation of Maryland law and one count of illegally carrying a handgun.

If the Prince Georges County

Circuit Court jury accepts his plea of insanity, Bremer would be committed to a Maryland mental hospital for an indefinite period.

Bremer still is under indictment on federal charges stemming from the shootings.

Although the defendant did not testify on his own behalf, his father, William Bremer, took the stand briefly Thursday as the fourth and final defense witness. The elder Bremer was not questioned about his son, except to identify him.

The prosecution in its rebuttal put before the jury more psychiatric testimony in efforts to prove that the defendant is legally sane.

The six-man, six-woman jury heard conflicting testimony on the sanity issue from psychiatrists and psychologists put on the stand by State's Atty. Arthur A. Marshall and Benjamin Lipsitz, the defense lawyer.

The highlight of Thursday's session was the reading of the final two-thirds of Bremer's personal diary by Lipsitz.

The manuscript related in detail how Bremer stalked first President Nixon and then Gov. Wallace for about a month prior to the day he was arrested following the shooting of Wallace at the shopping center campaign rally.

The diary, found in Bremer's car, told in his words of his plan "to get Nixon at the Otawa military airport," a plan which failed when he couldn't gain entrance to the airport.

Bremer related at one point in the diary that he considered shooting Sen. George McGovern.

The document repeatedly refers to his belief that he would be captured or killed.

On May 8 he wrote, "I don't know whether it's trial or prison for me or bye-bye brains." And again, "I hope my death makes more sense than my life."

Manpower shortage reported on ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The buildup of U.S. warships off Vietnam into the largest naval armada since World War II has created a manpower shortage in the 7th Fleet, prompting requests that men ashore voluntarily go back to sea.

Navy spokesmen say this was one of several steps taken within the past few weeks to help fill the gap and bring relief to crews working round the clock in launching carrier-based air strikes over Indochina.

Men with critical job skills now serving with the 7th Fleet have been asked to extend expiring enlistments, at least until their vessels return home.

In addition, the Navy has sent letters to 80,000 reservists asking them to come back voluntarily for one year. It hopes 2,000 will respond.

Nearly 40,000 men are aboard U.S. ships in the Gulf of Tonkin following the buildup, which began four months ago in response to the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Navy said it cannot fill the vacancies with new recruits because it needs experienced personnel "With the high tempo of the operations, they've been pressed to the wall out there," says a Bureau of Naval Personnel spokesman.

Before asking for volunteers, the Navy said, about 600 men were ordered from shore stations. Their jobs ashore were filled by women for the first time, the spokesman said.

"We may have to reconsider (less desirable alternatives) including a further drawdown of personnel assigned to support and training activities ashore and a further drawdown of non-deployed ships and aircraft

Experts predict Fischer victory

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The experts predicted that Bobby Fischer would win the 10th game of the world chess championship today, giving him a commanding 6½-3½ lead over Boris Spassky.

Grandmasters Bent Larsen of Denmark and Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia agreed that the American challenger appeared certain to gain a three-point edge when play resumes in the game.

"Spassky is massacred," said Gligoric. "It is unbelievable that the world champion cannot even manage a draw."

"If Spassky loses this game, the match becomes a farce," said British Grandmaster David Levy.

Play was adjourned Thursday night after the 40th move, and Fischer handed his sealed 41st move to referee Lothar Schmid.

With a win counting one point and a draw half a point, Fischer needs 12½ points to capture the championship and Spassky must get 12 to keep it.

Fischer was playing the white pieces Thursday, giving him the first move. It was pawn to king four, an opening he used only once in the three previous times he played the white pieces. Then he went into the Ruy Lopez pattern, but Spassky broke out of it with an exchange of pieces that left the board open for attacks.

Grandmaster Isaac Kashdan, analyzing the matches for The Associated Press, said Fischer after the 40th move "had the material advantage with two rooks against a rook and a bishop. Spassky had the edge in pawns, four against three, but this did not quite make up for the deficit."

Twice Spassky appeared trapped by Fischer's aggressive play, but both times he wriggled out.

When the American's queen threatened Spassky's kingside bishop pawn and then checked, the champion used his bishop to force one of Fischer's rooks to protect his forward pawns, isolated from the mate strike.

Spassky escaped again after one of Fischer's rooks grabbed his bishop and another put him in check.

Sniper kills 1 soldier

BELFAST (AP) — A sniper hiding in an apartment house opened fire on an army patrol searching for bombs today and killed one of the soldiers.

The gunman fled before the troops could return the fire. The patrol found a carbine and a rifle abandoned in a nearby garden.

Two British troops have been killed since the army tore down the barricades in Belfast and Londonderry Monday and occupied the strongholds of the Irish Republican Army.

Nixon has a football in desk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon keeps a football in his desk drawer.

This came to light today when the chief executive, the nation's best-known sports fan, chatted in his Oval Office with former football star Ollie Matson.

As photographers filed into the office to record the scene, Nixon stepped to his desk and pulled out an autographed football given him by players in the 1969 Pro Bowl. He and Matson then held the football as they posed for pictures.

Party is more concerned says Demo chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Committee Chairman Jean Westwood and her staff are telling worried minority and ethnic members of the party that concern is being upgraded, not lessened by recent organization changes.

Mrs. Westwood last week told her staff she was abolishing the ethnics and minorities divisions because they were, in effect, "ghettos" operating in isolation from the DNC and each other.

The black, Spanish-speaking and ethnic offices were barged with calls from irate minority Democrats asking what the change meant.

This week, the word is that no insult was meant. She said she wanted to elevate their status to benefit the overall DNC as well as their specific constituencies.

The reaction has been mixed: —Polly Baca Barragan, who came in January as special assistant to former DNC Chairman Lawrence O'Brien and as first director of the Office of the Spanish Speaking, decided to leave anyway, spurning an offer tendered from Sen. George S. McGovern for a deputy chairmanship.

But she said she's convinced that McGovern and Mrs. Westwood sincerely want to add more Latinos and she'll stay long enough to lay the groundwork.

—Andy Valuchek, who has headed the All-Americans Council for a decade, will remain although he's uncertain what the status will be of the council with its 23-ethnic board members headed by former New York Mayor Robert Wagner.

"The first impression was bad but I think there will be an accommodation that will bode well for the ethnics," Valuchek said, "and obviously we're going to make a tremendous effort to get the ethnics to vote Democratic."

4,100 acres are burned in fire

BIG SUR, Calif. (AP) — Aided by photographs snapped by a U2 reconnaissance plane, a force of 1,500 men worked today to encircle a blaze that has blackened 4,100 acres in the coastal Big Sur country.

A blanket of dense fog and dwindling winds helped Thursday night as fire fighters wielding axes, shovels and hoses tried to halt the fire along three miles of open line.

The fire was about 70 per cent contained and could be fully contained tonight, officials said.

Six fire fighters have been injured, including one hurt seriously when he tumbled 200 feet down a cliff.

The photographs made by the reconnaissance plane, loaned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, have been used in plotting a map of the fire's progress so that men along with planes and helicopters dropping retardants and water can be used in the most important areas. It was believed the first time a U2 has ever been used for forest fire reconnaissance.

It went into operation Wednesday.

Fanned by 40-mile-per hour winds earlier, the fire—the region's worst in 20 years—had swept through stands of young redwoods, madroña, live oak and tan oak.

The full-grown redwoods, many dating back to the time of Christ and able to withstand searing heat, were not damaged, officials said.

No buildings have been lost in the fire, but many have been threatened. An abandoned house trailer was destroyed.

The fire, burning in the 98,000-acre Ventana Wilderness area of the Los Padres National Forest, was started Tuesday by an illegal campfire, officials said.

Coming, Going

W.C. Carpenter has returned home after spending a month in Wadley Hospital in Texarkana. He wishes to thank his many friends for cards, letters and other expressions of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Claus came home Monday from a 10-day vacation to Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cornelius and Gail, Ft. Wayne, Ind., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. June Cornelius and family. All have enjoyed a trip to Dogpatch.

Mrs. David Pack and 3 sons,

Pine Bluff, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Paul Raley during the Little League Tournament. The entire family group has recently returned from a trip to Dogpatch, Eureka Springs and other points in north Arkansas.

Dr. and Mrs. Harve Rawson and family, Madison, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson, Jr. and family, Monroe, La., will be here this weekend to see Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson and the Lynn Harris family. Steve Harris, who has been a counselor at a camp in Indiana this summer, will also be coming home.

Mrs. Nell Davis is visiting her sister, Mrs. Royce Weisenberger, and Mr. Weisenberger while on a trip from her home in California.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions go into producing television's daily fare, but there are times—ah, yes, those times—when it would be all for naught if it weren't for the industry's unsung heroes of the panel truck and tool box: repairmen.

Seen from the other end of the screwdriver, theirs is a frustrating, sometimes funny, world.

"Like the lady customer we've got," says Herb Levine at Ridge Radio and TV in Greenwich Village, "who's got—and I swear this is true—25 cats. There's another one who's got 15 dogs. No kidding. What does a TV repairman do when there's 15 dogs in the house? Step over them, man. She's a paying customer."

Then there are the reasons television sets won't work. "Dead mice inside, sometimes," says Levine, 35, who has been in the business 15 years. "Or cockroaches. They like the warmth and the darkness. And Pepsi Cola. People are always spilling a bottle of Pepsi into their set. Beer? Nope. For some reason, they're more careful with beer."

Some sets won't work because people hide their money inside, says Ruth Rose, who takes trouble calls for her husband Jack at Crest Radio and TV in Washington Heights.

Other times people forget how to turn them on.

"Out of every 20 calls, I'll bet we get two or three because people can't remember how to work the switch," says Mel Reasler, 48, who owns Belin Radio and Television in Yorkville. "The old sets had knobs you'd turn to clock them off and on. Now they've got knobs you pull and push. And some people just can't get it."

REVIVAL SLATED

The Fulton Church of Christ will hold a revival Aug. 6-11. Robert Turner of Burnettsville, Tex., will be the evangelist. Services will begin at 6 p.m. on Sunday night and at 7:30 on week nights.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

An "Other Woman" in Name Only

DEAR HELEN: "Other Women" aren't always villains. Sometimes they're just very lonely housewives whose husbands pay them no attention and they're looking for a little meaning to their lives. And find none—even in the Other Man.

Take me: I ate alone, shopped alone, watched TV alone, and finally got a job because I couldn't stand the constant waiting for an almost invisible husband who wasn't there—even when he was in the room with me.

At work, I met a man who acted as if I counted. He tells me he's crazy about me, but he can't leave his wife and children. His wife knows about his affairs and doesn't mind, so long as they stay married. He's honest with me: says he doesn't expect this to be "undying love" but, for now, I'm the biggest thing in his life, so why don't we go to bed?

I love him so much I think of him night and day—but I won't give in. Having been discarded by one man (the husband who ignores me), I can't face another disappointment. Besides, I've got scruples.

So here I am, the "Other Woman" in name only, married in name only, and hopelessly in love with a man who just wants a fling. If I quit my job to avoid him, I'll go back to—nothing. If I stay on, I'll be hurt, one way or another. Is there any hope for an—HONORABLE O.V.

DEAR O.V.: Why not try honest appraisal? Face it, you were ripe to "fall hopelessly in love" with the first man who noticed you were still a woman. Be grateful for his frankness. He's saved you a lot bigger hurt by admitting he only wants a little romance on the side.

Next: look at your marriage. Is there any hope here? If not, don't stay with a lost cause. Find another job, preferably in a different location, make new friends, and get on with life. (And don't settle for crumbs!)

—H.
DEAR HELEN: I felt for "Ungrateful," who wasn't thrilled when her husband brought home two tickets to a live ballgame. Not only do I suffer from weekend TV sports but I put up with them other evenings too. And that's not all. My retired husband is addicted to soap operas, westerns, and old movies. And nothing must disturb him!

When I go grocery shopping, I blow the horn for him to help me unload the car, then unload it myself, as I'd have to wait for a commercial.

Once I was lifting ashes out of the fireplace, and the cardboard box caught fire. In panic, I called to my husband to help, but he just said, "Wait till this inning is over!"

After 40 years of waiting for the joy of retirement, I find I am a—TV WIDOW, AND UNGRATEFUL, TOO

DEAR TV:

Can't you manage a TV breakdown, then plan a trip until it's fixed? Sometimes retired people get locked into the tube because they've forgotten there is anything better to do.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our landlady refused to fix up our place. She lives up above us and occasionally has wild parties. During the last one, about half the ceiling plaster fell down on our bed.

Finally, in desperation, we bought supplies and repaired leaks, broken tiles, the ceiling, and did a lot of painting.

Then—she raised the rent. Says she can get a lot more for the apartment now it looks so much better. What can we do? We'd rather not move as we can't afford higher rent, and besides this is near our kids' school—HELP

DEAR HELP: Write her a letter of protest, itemizing the amount you have spent on repairs—and send a copy to the Rent Control Board. (It's listed under Internal Revenue Service.)—H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of this newspaper.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite some sharp but shortlived bursts, stock prices in general are slow to respond to the glittering profits reports now being turned in by American corporations.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average is right where it was six years ago.

This suggests that the DJIA, which includes laggards such as Texaco, American Telephone, General Motors and U.S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel, might not accurately reflect the true state of the market.

To some extent this might be so. Last week the price-earnings ratio of DJIA companies for the 12 months ended March 30 was 16.2. Since the recent surge of profits that ratio now should be well under 16.

By contrast, the ratio of 813 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange is more than 18, meaning buyers are willing to pay 18 times per share earnings.

Those DJIA companies are basic to the American economy; it would collapse without the contributions of this elite 30. But while it may be true that as they go, so goes the nation, that formula doesn't apply to stocks.

Based on the usual statistics used by Wall Street, stocks should be higher. Some are nudging their all-time highs.

There is good reason for this: Profits are soaring. A First National City Bank survey shows a 16 per cent rise in after-tax earnings for the first six months of 1972, compared with a year earlier.

The survey shows food product companies with a 14 per cent gain, cement-glass-stone 30, electrical equipment-electronics 32, and apparel 24, to name a few. And the future of profits, by most current estimates—even with controls—is bullish.

Aren't we supposed then to believe that the outlook for the whole market, the entire, domestic economy is bullish too? Those who believe strongly in our corporate way of life contend with theological fervor that this is so.

It is fear of the unknown that seems to be stalling many of what could be, under different circumstances, among the star market performers. It is a conglomerate of factors that brokers categorize as uncertainty, and uncertainty produces agnostics who wait for proof.

Grade school ensemble for fall

Anyone in the pigtail set who wants to attract attention at grade school assemblies this fall might well consider wearing new knit separates. The knit separates from Aileen Girl (left) have almost a custom look. Argyle knit pants are scattered here and there with a Scottie dog motif and similar Scotties march around the neck and cuffs of the pullover. Brushing up on fashion our heroine (right) puts a brushed plaid skirt in navy, red and gold together with a red brushed shrink sweater. Both by Russ Girl, they're worn over a yellow knit shirt.

Colbert ties home run record

Nate Colbert of San Diego has opened another page of the National League record book but Chicago's Bill Hines has discovered he should let his fingers do the walking.

Colbert, who slugged two homers in Houston Sunday and five more in a doubleheader in Atlanta Tuesday, blasted a two-run circuit in the Padres 6-5 victory over Atlanta Thursday night to tie the league record for most homers in a week.

Hands, a Cubs' right-hander, couldn't handle a ground ball off the bat of Montreal's Ken Singleton in the seventh inning and lost his chance for a no-hitter as Chicago beat the Expos 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader. Montreal won the first game 2-1.

In other NL games, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 3-0, Philadelphia beat New York 4-1 and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1.

In the American League, it was Minnesota 9, Texas 1; Boston 7, New York 2; Cleveland 4, Baltimore 3; Milwaukee 6, Detroit 3 and Chicago 4, California 2.

"I just hope I can keep my stroke," said Colbert, who is tied with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh in 1947 and Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati in 1956. "I hope it never ends."

The Padres' first baseman, who leads the majors with 31 homers and 84 runs batted in, said he actually was more impressed with the feat of Dale Long of Pittsburgh in 1956, who hit homers in eight straight games.

Colbert's five homers and 13 RBI Tuesday night tied the mark for circuits in a doubleheader and broke the mark for runs batted in and total bases in two games.

The Orioles, who've won three straight pennants and four in the last six years, are involved in—yousee excuse the expression—a race.

No supermen this season, the Orioles were beaten 4-3 by the Cleveland Indians Thursday night for their fifth loss in the last six games.

Luckily for Baltimore, Detroit's play has been strictly for the birds, too. The lowly Milwaukee Brewers beat the Tigers 6-3 to hand the East leaders their sixth defeat in eight games.

The Tigers thus maintained a tenuous two-game lead over the Orioles in the Division That Nobody Wants, and both had better be looking over their shoulders of the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

The Padres won the game in the 11th inning on three singles, the last was a broken-bat hit by Dave Roberts.

East is given edge in All-Star game

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The practice sessions for future High School All-Star games may be influenced by what happens Saturday night.

Throughout All-Star week, Max Graham, coach of the East All-Star football team, has stressed more contact than his counterpart, Doane Davis of the West.

Graham held a brief scrimmage Sunday afternoon, one day after the players reported, and held another scrimmage Monday. The West's first scrimmage was Tuesday.

Graham said his practice sessions reflect his coaching philosophy.

"I believe football is a game of contact," he said. "And you aren't going to find out who is willing to hit without work."

Davis did not question Graham's tactics.

"I'm not an aggressive coach," he said. "I'm going to leave most of the playing for Saturday night."

"I think Max is just doing what he thinks is right," Davis said. "We're both here to win this football game. I've put my team through some rough weeks at Morrilton but I don't think it's necessary here."

The East is given an edge in the football game, primarily because of quarterbacks Walter Rowan of Little Rock Hall and David Hines of Little Rock McClellan. Rowan has had hits and sparked two rallies and Tom Hilgendorf and Phil Hennigan combined on a seven-hitter to help the Indians beat the Orioles.

Chambliss, who singled in the first inning, doubled in both the fourth and fifth innings to highlight two-run rallies in each frame as the Indians wiped out an early 1-0 Baltimore lead.

The Orioles came back with two runs in the sixth on Brooks Robinson's homer, but Hennigan shut the door in the late innings.

Milwaukee, despite its sixth-place posture in the East, continues to act like a pennant-contender against Detroit.

With Thursday night's triumph, Milwaukee swept the front-running Tigers in a three-game set and established an 8-4 margin in the season series.

The Brewers came up with 45 hits and 28 runs in the just-concluded series in Detroit.

"I hate to leave this good-hitting ballpark," said Milwaukee

Hands didn't live up to his name. He had pitched perfect ball through 6 1-3 innings before he gave up a walk to Clyde Mashore. Singleton then hit a chopper, which bounced off Hands' glove and went into right field.

After the hit, Hands walked Ron Fairly to load the bases. Manager Whitey Lockman visited the mound and Hands settled down, getting Boots Day to hit into a double play.

"If that doesn't beat everything, Poppy (second baseman Paul Popovich) told me if I had let the ball along, we would have had a double play on Singleton."

A bases-loaded walk to Rick Monday in the first inning gave the Cubs the lead. They scored two more runs in the sixth on an RBI-single by Ron Santo and a passed ball charged to catcher Terry Humphrey.

In the opener, Ron Woods pinch-hit single in the 13th inning drove in the winning Montreal run. He came to bat with the bases loaded after a single, a hit batsman and an intentional walk.

Hall shatters swim record

CHICAGO (AP) — When it comes to breaking records, Gary Hall isn't the least bit fussy. He doesn't even mind breaking his own.

"I don't care whose record I break," Hall said Thursday after shaving .19 of a second off his world record in the 400-meter individual medley as the second day of U.S. Olympic Swimming trials were completed.

Hall, who had already qualified for Munich in the 200-meter butterfly, sped through the chilly waters at Portage Park in 4:30.81 to better the record of 4:31.0 he set in Los Angeles two years ago.

Afterwards, he said the fact he had already made the team kept him loose enough to try for the record. But he said he wasn't really expecting it.

"I'm not even sure I'm at my peak," he added. "It's really hard to say. I just hope I don't drop off before we get to Munich."

There were two other near-record performances on Thursday's five-event program.

Mark Spitz, who shattered the world's record in the 200-meter butterfly Tuesday, missed by eight-hundredths of a second breaking his own world's record in the men's 200-meter freestyle.

And 15-year-old Keena Rothhammer of Santa Clara, Calif., won the women's 400-meter freestyle in 4:21.99, about eight-tenths of a second above the world's record held by Shane Gould of Australia.

The highlight of the evening was the 200-meter race in which Spitz edged Steve Genter, who does gyrations to work himself up and shaves his head for big races.

Fred Tyler of Jacksonville, Fla., finished third, edging out John Kinsella, the world record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle. Kinsella is expected to make the team in the 400-meter and the 1,500.

Preseason football games get underway tonight

The National Football League, which has rarely seen black quarterbacks in the past, will have two of them in starting roles tonight as the first busy weekend of preseason games gets under way.

Karl Douglass, a rookie from Texas A&I who was on the Baltimore taxi squad last year, is expected to start and go most of the way when the Colts take on the Washington Redskins at Tampa, Fla.

Thirsk, Allin share PGA championship lead

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "Men, I'm sorry, I made you miss your dinners," apologized Stan Thirsk with a grin, "but I really enjoyed it."

That's the way the virtual golfing unknown from Shawnee Mission, Kan., signed off his news conference after stunning reporters by strolling off the Oakland Hills Country Club course with a two-under par 68 Thursday for a share of the lead with Bud Allin after the first round of the 54th PGA National Championship.

Most reporters had their stories all wrapped up and were ready to go home, having written about another relatively obscure pro, Allin, who came in early with a 68 and appeared certain to stay on top alone.

But the 44-year-old Thirsk—that's T-h-i-r-s-k—birdied three holes on the back nine, including two of the last four, which put him two-under. He was in the last golfer off the course.

Although the 27-year-old Allin's name isn't a household word either among golf followers, he did win $55,786 last year in his first season on the tour and was at least vaguely familiar to the more than 300 writers covering the prestigious event.

Allin and Thirsk are leading such notables as Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer was among the early leaders and finished with a one-under 69. The PGA is the only major championship he has not won.

Trevino, criticizing himself for using the wrong club four times, shot a 73 while Nicklaus was in at 72 along with Player.

Joining the one-under group was another nearly unknown pro, Larry Gilbert of Fayetteville, Tenn. Jerry Heard, who has already won two tour events year, was at 69 also, along with Ray Floyd and Jim Jamieson.

Two days of rain prior to the first round made things somewhat damp for the field of 139 and the record first day PGA crowd of 19,200. Brief rains hit again Thursday along with brisk winds at times.

Sam Snead, 60-year-old relic from another era of golfing greatness, was one of a large group matching par 70 over the 7,064-yard layout. Also in the group were Richard Crawford, Rod Funseth, John Miller, Dan Sikes and Jim Wiechers.

Gene Sarazen, marking his 50th anniversary in the PGA, which the 70-year-old won in 1922 and 1923, carded a 79.

Completing the weekend's action Monday night, New Orleans is at Philadelphia. Denver and Minnesota are not scheduled.

James Harris, a reserve with the Buffalo Bills, is the lone veteran black quarterback in the NFL. He was a starter for a while, but has since lost the top job to Dennis Shaw.

In addition to Douglass and Walton, rookie Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State is trying out with Pittsburgh. But the Steelers already have Terry Bradshaw and Terry Hanratty, so his chances appear slim.

In the recent past, Marlin Briscoe started five games at quarter for Denver in 1968, but he has since been switched to wide receiver. Oakland drafted Eldridge Dickey of Tennessee State as a quarterback, but he too was shifted to wide receiver.

Douglass, a third-round draft pick in 1971, is expected to be Baltimore's back-up man to Johnny Unitas. Against the Redskins, Douglass is supposed to go the first three periods, with Unitas possibly seeing action in the final quarter.

Walton gets the starting job for the Rams because of injuries to veterans Roman Gabriel and Jerry Rhyme. Gabriel suffered a collapsed lung early in training camp and has not yet thrown hard, while Rhyme suffered burns in a garage fire at his home Monday night.

Fischer: Even his countrymen cheering for Spassky

NEW YORK (AP) — "I never thought I'd be cheering for a Russian," the nattily dressed businessman said to a couple of fellow commuters on the Long Island Railroad. "That Fischer is a lunk-head. I hope Spassky beats his brains out."

"I think Spassky is cute," the secretary was heard to remark during an office coffee break. "Wasn't that terrific the way he stood up and bowed the day Bobby didn't show up? Fischer—ugh—he's dreadful."

Bobby Fischer, perhaps the greatest chess genius the world has known, doesn't exactly have his country cheering for him as he seeks to break the Soviet Union's long-time hold on the world championship in his nose-to-nose confrontation with Boris Spassky in remote Reykjavik, Iceland.

He has taken over the role of heavy in the drama of the pawns, knights and bishops. He wears the black hat. Spassky is the hero. And even the Americans are hissing their own man.

Is Bobby Fischer really the heel he has made himself out to be—with his late arrivals, his protests and his outlandish demands—or is it a case of psychological warfare which is shredding the Russian's mental processes before the Red champion can unleash a sustained offensive?

"It's strictly psychological warfare, and it's working," argued a close friend of Fischer, who spent more than two weeks with the one-time Brooklyn chess prodigy before the latter's departure for Iceland.

The friend, a New York public relations man, was with Fischer during the rigid physical training period at Grossinger's in the New York Catskills and later at the swank LaCosta Country Club and Spa in Rancho La Costa, Calif., where Fischer made one of his rare public appearances in a sports celebrities' tennis tournament.

"Bobby knows that the Russians use the world chess crown, which they've monopolized, as a giant propaganda springboard," he said. "He talked with me for hours how the Russians had smothered every effort by outsiders to take the title and he said he was determined to beat them—no matter what the costs."

"One of the costs is to be pictured internationally as a spoiled brat and a crude, uncouth lout. It's a price he has been willing to pay in order to achieve his end."

At LaCosta, shortly before Fischer's departure for Iceland and the ensuing controversies, it was possible to scratch beneath the surface of this moody, lonely man whose genius at the chess board has fascinated the world.

A tennis match was arranged with Hank Greenberg, the former Detroit Tiger baseball slugger, and a pair of newsmen. Fischer agreed to the pairing but when he appeared at the courts, a racket and a white sweater in his hand, he balked.

"Where's the little boy I played with yesterday?" he said. "I want to play with the boy I played with yesterday."

A friend explained that the boy was not around and that the doubles match had been arranged. Fischer nodded.

"Play here," said a court attendant, pointing to the center court already surrounded by interested spectators.

"I don't want to play here," Bobby said.

"Where do you want to play?" he was asked.

"Over there," he said, striding toward an obscure court a good 100 yards away. Fischer teamed with Greenberg, a good player. Bobby, a strapping figure 6-2, 180-pounder was awkward but determined. Ironically, he had trouble keeping score.

After losing the first set, Fischer balked again. "I want to practice before I play the second set," he said. His partners sat out the practice. After half an hour, Bobby returned. He won the second set.

He was the hit of the show. Athletes playing in the tournament mobbed him for autographs.

The vigilantes wanted to wrest control of the government from the Irish Catholic Democrats.

BE PARTNERS WITH GOD SUPPORT HIS CHURCH

REAPING

"And they took the fruit of the land in their hands and brought it down to us." Deut. 1:25. Isn't that just like God's children...

always ready to lend a helping hand, or to give an extra portion — all if necessary. When the crop is ripe, the reaping done and the bounties stored away, do you ever stop to thank God? Maybe your inventory still shows all you ever possessed. Better realize it all came from God and give back a portion. How is it right now with you and yours? It is reaping time but what will your harvest be? Do you support His cause, His church, or, are you one of the would-be self-sufficient? Why not begin right now to use your harvest to help bring in the Kingdom?

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are shown with demonstration of love and devotion for a better citizenship and a stronger religious character. Sometimes today there are those who think the church is a mere social gathering place. But the church does so much more than that. It is the place where we can find leadership to handle the affairs of life in these perilous times. Then we can be sure that we are in the church of our choice. You are in the Church and the Church is in you. Make a commitment for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

The CHURCH points the way to GOD and RICHER, FULLER LIVING

Pipeline of grain will move

WASHINGTON (AP) — First shipments of U.S. surplus grain soon will begin moving into a new farm-export pipeline to the Soviet Union, a link government officials say could herald a new production era for American farmers.

The grain sale to the Soviets, announced last July 8, involves $750 million worth of wheat and livestock feed grain over the next three years. It will be financed under credit arrangements handled by the Commodity Credit Corp. in the Department of Agriculture.

If sustained, and further export doors such as China are opened, dramatic shifts in U.S. government crop-control programs may be in the offing, changes which could enable farmers to raise more crops for cash markets and less for taxpayer-owned storage bins.

One of the more immediate impacts, however, will be on employment, primarily at port facilities where grain is loaded onto ships, in yards where ships are fitted for such cargoes and in the transportation industry generally.

Nixon administration officials estimate between 3,000 and 5,000 additional jobs are created each time grain exports are increased $100 million.

At the Agriculture Department, officials say enough grain probably is in position at Great Lakes and Gulf ports right now to handle Soviet shipments in the next few months.

Laurel C. Meade, general sales manager for the Export Marketing Service in USDA, said in an interview that he expects the Soviets initially to buy mostly wheat, although some corn is being readied.

The sales, which Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicts could exceed $1 billion over the next three years, will be handled by private traders. Thus, Meade said, it is difficult at this time for the government to estimate just how much of which grains will be sold.

Under an "export credit" program operated by CCC, a private exporter can receive government credit financing. Interest charged is at commercial rates, with the recipient foreign buyer paying back the loan plus carrying charges.

According to USDA officials, two export firms have applied for CCC credit. They were identified as Continental Grain Co. and Dreyfus Grain Co., both based in New York.

Sources said three or four other firms also are likely to seek CCC credit soon.

Regardless of whether the Soviets give priority to U.S. wheat, corn or other feed grains, American farmers and taxpayers have mountains available as a result of recent record crops and a dip in some exports, particularly wheat.

Last year farmers raised a record wheat crop of more than 1.64 billion bushels; about 1.5 billion were needed to meet domestic needs and export commitments.

Thus, on July 1 this year as another bumper crop was being harvested the wheat carryover—including earlier surpluses—was about 865 million bushels, one of the largest supplies in a decade.

Feed grain, fed by a record corn crop of 5.5 billion bushels last year, also is in superabundance. Estimated at around 53 million tons, it is the most since the mid-1960s. The corn surplus alone by Oct. 1, when another new crop will be binned, is expected to be around 1.3 billion bushels.

Exports are vital markets for crops which, for decades, have been produced in overabundance. Currently, according to USDA, exports siphon off the crop production from one in every four acres farmers harvest.

During the year ended June 30, the value of farm exports soared to a record $8 billion, partly because of higher prices for some commodities, but also because the volume of shipments held up surprisingly well despite last year's dock strikes.

If more can be sold abroad, cash markets at home will improve and enable farmers to move gradually from under the subsidy protection of the federal government, administration officials say.

That philosophy, however, has not been proved entirely, although Butz and others argue that rising exports eventually will lessen the need for federal farm assistance, this year running at a record of around $4.1 billion in subsidy payments to growers of wheat, feed grain and cotton.

China has 4-point health program aim

PEKING (AP) — The Chinese Communists have wiped out cholera, smallpox, plague and venereal disease, all once endemic in their country, a high official of the department of health reports.

The drug problem is nonexistent, Dr. Chen Hai-feng said in a long interview, due to a combination of education, strict control of drugs by the government and severe treatment of sellers 10-15 years ago.

Tuberculosis, typhoid, measles, chickenpox, malaria and snail fever, all of which once were rampant in China, are considered "controlled," the doctor said.

"We cannot find venereal disease cases to show our medical students in colleges," Dr. Chen said.

A small, intense man, Dr. Chen explained the four-point aim of China's health program, which is not unlike those in the West, and also the medical structure which seems a key to China's success in programs that failed elsewhere in the world.

The four aims:

1. To direct medical work at the masses by putting medical workers into the field.
2. Prevention of disease by vaccines, sterilization of drinking water and attacking insects such as mosquitos and flies.
3. Combining Western and ancient Chinese herb medicines in new treatment.
4. Mass education of peasants and workers to understand the dangers of diseases and the worth of prevention measures.

These principles are administered through a detailed medical structure reaching units of 100 persons or less. China has 800 million people.

It had been thought previously that the "barefoot doctors" were the lowest level of the state medical program, but it goes farther down than that, to the "health worker," a part-time job. The health worker is trained to give injections and detect disease. His main strength is in knowing well everyone he deals with.

The health worker knows all that happens to his small group and can report to the barefoot doctor level if a disease appears which he cannot handle.

Barefoot doctors, many of them women, have received three to four months' training in hospitals. They can administer Chinese herb medicines, acupuncture and some Western medicines. If the barefoot doctor finds a problem too complicated, he sends the patient to an outpatient clinic, staffed by regular nurses and doctors, for treatment. If the patient requires further treatment, he is sent to a hospital.

Obviously a disease cannot go long undetected at the health-worker level. The Chinese avoid saying that their vaccines and other preventive treatments are "compulsory," but it is obvious that treatment, if it is needed, is given one way or the other.

Dr. Chen placed considerable emphasis on the combination of Western and Chinese medicines as being helpful. He said that at first there had been conflict between doctors over the combination of Chinese herb medicine with the Western, but that it is now accepted.

He said the health ministry ordered all Chinese herb cures collected, beginning at the village level, and taken to universities research departments for scientific analysis and experimental treatment. Those proved effective were adopted.

Many new treatments have been discovered combining the medicines of West and East. Among these, Dr. Chen mentioned a new treatment for severe burns to bring about quick healing with less necessity for skin grafts, better results in treatments of goiters, malaria and snail fever, and treatment of fractures.

China has not had a drug problem for many years, Dr. Chen said, and the health department was extremely angry at a story by a European correspondent that China was growing opium for export.

Provinces of China are given a great measure of autonomy in many matters of agriculture, he said, but not in the growth of drugs.

"We grow only enough for our own use—no more," Dr. Chen said. "If there are no drugs, there are no addicts."

Penalties for illegal drug sales are described as severe—he declined to specify the penalties. China, however, still has the death penalty for major offenses.

Upon coming to power, the Communists rounded up all addicts and gave them education and treatment, Dr. Chen said. The regime also rounded up all the sellers and dealt with them "severely." Since then China has been without a drug problem, he declared.

On venereal disease, the first step had been to round up prostitutes, treat them, educate them in the doctrines of Mao and to disperse them to factories and farms, presumably to stay.

Special stations were set up to deal with venereal disease. Investigators were sent out to find cases and bring them in for treatment. Compulsory education was given in the dangers of venereal disease. Once this phase was completed, health workers took over. Any case tracked down was treated. The education campaign was pursued vigorously until the disease was considered eliminated.

But there are some differences in his daily routine because, well, because Wallace is Wallace. For instance, when he awakes at 7 a.m. he washes and dresses himself, then reads newspapers.

"He is a speed reader and he has amazing retention of what he reads," Trough said. "He can read six newspapers in the time it would take an average person to read one."

He then goes through an hour of OT, where he learns such things as getting in and out of cars, down steps, etc.—the kind of thing one might face at work.

In that respect, Wallace set a precedent at Spain. Most patients learn to slide from a wheelchair into the front seat of a car and then pull the wheelchair in after them. But not the governor.

"I always ride in the back," he told therapists the first day. Next there's an hour of physical therapy which consists of such things as learning to get into a wheelchair from bed and vice versa and how to talk with braces.

During the lunch hour—which Wallace usually spends with his wife Cornelia, who is staying at nearby hotel—the governor reads mail, more newspapers and talks to his staff via telephone. He also manages to eat.

The afternoon OT and PT sessions are repeats of the morning program.

The governor goes through his session alongside other patients and is treated like just another one of the group, said Judith Cante, director of clinical services.

"I don't think he has much effect on the other patients," Trough added. "They're all here to get well, that's all."

Visiting hours are from 4:30 to 8 in the evening and the governor sees his staff, family and of late such notables as former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally and Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

After visiting hours, patients are free to engage in any recreational activities they want before retiring.

"Wallace's recreation is actually in his work. That is where he gets the most enjoyment," said Trough, who is a specialist in removing architectural barriers for the handicapped.

He recommended changes at the executive mansion and the Capitol in Montgomery to make it easier for the governor—and the handicapped public—to get around in the buildings.

Much of the work has been done on the mansion. Trough said he hopes Wallace can take a therapeutic weekend off to return to Montgomery and get used to getting around outside the Spain center. "That may come next week," he said.

The therapy program itself utilizes techniques developed after World War II, explained Bay Ritch, a therapist.

"Some persons were coming back from the war with injuries and, too, we had quite a bit of polio then," she said.

The aim of the program is simply to get from one place to another.

"There is very little you can't do from a wheelchair. Architectural barriers are our biggest problem," Trough said.

With Wallace's injury it is very important that his muscles in the unparalyzed portion of his body be strengthened. One way he accomplishes this is to raise his body by arm pressure on the frame of the wheelchair. He does it at least once every 15 minutes.

Another device for building up arm strength is a 74-pound bar with a bicycle wheel on both ends. He lifts it for 20 minutes a day. The wheels are to prevent injury in case the bar is dropped.

Trough explained that bruises to paralyzed persons are far more dangerous than to other persons because of the lack of circulation.

To learn to walk with braces, two parallel bars some four feet off the floor are used. The patient supports himself with his arms on the bar, then swings his feet forward. When his feet are even with his hands, the process is repeated.

Trough said most patients with spinal injuries prefer the wheelchair to braces because braces use five to six times more energy than a wheelchair.

Wallace is ahead of therapy game

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Using therapy techniques developed after World War II and the motivation and drive acquired in years of tough political battles, Gov. George C. Wallace is ahead of the game in his program to be independent though partially paralyzed, his doctor says.

"We're following the original four-week schedule. He should be out in two more weeks," said Dr. George H. Traugh, acting medical director of the Spain Rehabilitation Center here.

"But as far as his physical therapy goes, he's ahead of the game compared to most persons suffering spinal cord injuries."

Wallace is paralyzed from the waist down as the result of an attempted assassination in Laurel, Md., May 18. His work at Spain is designed to make him independent.

"Why is the governor an extraordinary patient?" Traugh was asked.

"Incentive, drive, and don't forget he's got a background in sports. He boxed some. He was agile physically when he was injured," Traugh replied.

Wallace's program is not one developed especially for him. He goes through the same physical therapy — PT—and occupation therapy — OT — as any other patient would.

But there are some differences in his daily routine because, well, because Wallace is Wallace. For instance, when he awakes at 7 a.m. he washes and dresses himself, then reads newspapers.

"He is a speed reader and he has amazing retention of what he reads," Traugh said. "He can read six newspapers in the time it would take an average person to read one."
